RESEARCHING A NEW ZEALANDER WHO DIED IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR - GUIDANCE SHEET

This bitesize guide is designed to help you research a New Zealander, or someone serving with the New Zealand Expeditionary Force who died in the First World War. Firstly, you will need to decide who you will research... this might be a relative, or you could choose a name from a local war memorial, or you might select a name from a Commonwealth War Graves (CWGC) headstone in one of our cemeteries, or within a parish churchyard local to you.

The first stage of your research starts with the Commonwealth War Graves Commission Casualty Database. At CWGC, we keep a record of the place of burial or commemoration of all the men and women of the Britain and Commonwealth who died in the First and Second World Wars.

STEP 1: Visit our website at www.cwgc.org

Need help..?
Watch the 'How to search' video tutorials

Using the dropdown FIND RECORDS menu, select 'Find War Dead'

FIND WAR DEAD

Fill in the name of the individual you are researching

Select First World War box

Research tip
Records use different combinations of full names, name and initial, and initials only – you may have to try several of these to find your the person you are looking for

If you already have some more details about the person you are looking for such as their age, service number, date of death, or any medals they received, you can add these into the ADDITIONAL FIELDS section.

ADDITIONAL FIELDS

Select additional options to add them to your search criteria

+ Country (commemorated in)
+ Cemetery or Memorial
+ Unit
+ Rank
+ Secondary Regiment
+ Age at death
+ Date of Death

+ Honours & awards
+ Additional Information

If you know where the person you are looking for died, for example, you can put this into the Additional Information box.

You will then get a list of the results...

Be aware,
CWGC records don't always include details about where an individual was from, or exactly where they died. Our records are centred around where a person is buried or commemorated.

If you have not found who you are looking for, you can refine the results

If you think you have found the person you are looking for, select 'More details' and you will get an at-a-glance record

Lower down the page you will find a link to our CWGC Archives and any additional information which is held about this individual. You can find several different types of official CWGC reports here. Find out more about these on page 3.

What are Headstone Reports?

These provide details of what is inscribed on an individual's headstone. The main purpose of these reports was to help manage the enormous programme of headstone production and engraving embarked by CWGC during the world wars.

What are Grave Registration Reports (GRRs)?

These forms detail the graves we are responsible for within a particular burial site. Each grave is listed by Plot, Row and Grave number. These reports often provide basic details of the individual such as their name, service number, rank, regiment, unit and date of their death, when known to us.

What are Concentration Reports?

These record details of individuals who were originally buried in smaller or isolated cemeteries, but who, at a later date, were exhumed and reburied in 'concentrated' war cemeteries. This enabled CWGC to fully commemorate and look after otherwise unmaintainable graves.

Further down on your search page you can find more details about the cemetery where the person you are looking for is buried, or the memorial upon which they are commemorated.

Did you know...?

The CWGC maintains more than 200 memorials across the globe. These record nearly 700,000 names of those who have no known grave, were buried at sea or cremated

Step 2: Exploring additional resources to find out more about the individual

You need to check if there are any the Enquiry Files held by the CWGC Archives <http://archive.cwgc.org> These contain correspondence between the family of those killed and the Commission. Only a small number of these files still survive.

Enquiry Files cover a range of subjects, including:

- Attempts to locate a missing individual
- Requests for the remains of a casualty to be returned to the country they came from, known as the 'repatriation of remains'
- The addition of a personal inscription to a CWGC headstone
- Requests for a photograph of a grave
- Issues about the maintenance or upkeep of a grave
- The exhumation and reburial of a casualty
- The return of wooden crosses to families

Did you know...?

The Imperial War Graves Commission was founded in 1917. Before that, an army unit, Directorate of Graves Registration and Enquires (DGRE) began the work of recording details of those who had died

Step 3: Searching for additional information online

A Street Near You uses maps to locate where those who died in the First World War originally came from and where they are now commemorated. You can search by lots of different terms so see what you can discover. It also provides links to other archives.

<https://astreetnearyou.org>

Archives New Zealand hold the personnel files for those who served in the New Zealand Expeditionary Force (NZEF) in the First World War. They are the most useful resource and should be your first port of call for researching First World War soldiers.

<http://www.archway.archives.govt.nz/>

The Auckland War Memorial Museum hosts a database of war dead, which includes photographs of some of the men. It also includes an image of the soldier's entry in the official The Great War, 1914-1918: New Zealand Expeditionary Force Roll of Honour, published in 1924.

<https://www.aucklandmuseum.com/war-memorial/online-cenotaph>

The 28th Maori Battalion website contains a roll of the 2,700 Maori and Pacific Islanders who served with the NZEF during the First World War. Search by name or service number.
